

S. M. Fairchild, Builder of the Scan-A-Graver, Writes About Friend Paul Klipsch

Sherman M. Fairchild

Paul W. Klipsch

Looking over the Scan-A-Graver, electronic picture plate-making machine which The Star set up last week under lease from Fairchild Graphic Equipment, Corp., is Thomas Stroud, former mailer for the newspaper, now stationed overseas with the Air Force.

Thomas, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Stroud of Washington, was called home because of an emergency operation on his mother, who is now recuperating at Hemstead County Memorial Hospital. Thomas has been overseas for two years, based at London, but on temporary duty in Morocco. He will return overseas February 26.

Hope's Paul W. Klipsch, himself world-famous for perfecting the electronic speaker by which all others are judged, has an astounding list of famous friends.

"Back in December when The Star's editor mentioned to the head of Klipsch & Associates that the newspaper had signed a lease contract for a Scan-A-Graver with Fairchild Graphic Equipment Corp. Paul said:

"That's Sherman Fairchild's outfit — I know the guy."

The Scan-A-Graver rolled in last week and The Star started publishing pictures the same day they were snapped — and Sunday brought the editor a letter from the head of the Fairchild company. When Klipsch says he knows someone, he isn't kidding.

Here's the letter The Star got from Sherman M. Fairchild, president of Fairchild Graphic Equipment Corp., Long Island, N. Y., dated January 31:

"It was with a great deal of pleasure that I learned that the Hope Star had leased one of our Scan-A-Gravers and will now produce its halftone engravings by the most modern electronic method.

"It seems most appropriate to me that your newspaper should employ advanced electronic methods of production, because Hope can be proud of the fact it can number among its leading citizens an electronic pioneer and friend of mine, Mr. Paul W. Klipsch.

"Paul Klipsch and I have been friends and have been working together ever since the days of World War II when I first read of his now famous Klipschorn in a technical publication. The article contained a working drawing of the speaker and I built one from this drawing — the first one, I believe.

"I could not get it to function properly so I wrote Mr. Klipsch (then Major Klipsch of the U. S. Army) and told him about my difficulties. As a result of this correspondence he came to New York on his next leave and spent several days with me working on the speaker until it functioned perfectly.

"We have been friends ever since and have worked together on a number of projects. I hold him in high esteem and feel certain that his fellow townsmen must do also.

"My very best wishes for photographic success with your new Scan-A-Graver. You will find it a

House Expected to Take Up Tax Program Today

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Gov. Orval Faubus spoke to Arkansas television audience yesterday in an effort to drum up support for his 22-million-dollar tax increase program, which is expected to come before the House of Representatives this week.

Although the Senate sped the governor's proposals through with overwhelming majorities, strong opposition is expected in the House.

A number of representatives are bitter enemies of any increase in the state sales tax, and the heart of Faubus' program is a boost from 2 to 3 per cent in the sales tax.

Faubus maintains that such an increase would bring in about 16 million dollars yearly. Another of his measures calls for broadening of the state income tax base to produce about 5 million dollars in new revenue and the third measure would provide about 1 million dollars through increased severance taxes on natural resources shipped outside Arkansas.

The governor stressed in his televised defense of the program that all the new revenue is desperately needed to improve state services.

He explained how funds would be allocated to raise classroom teachers' salaries, expand welfare department services, improve conditions at the State Hospital for Nervous Diseases, aid state colleges and the University of Arkansas, and help the Arkansas industrial development program.

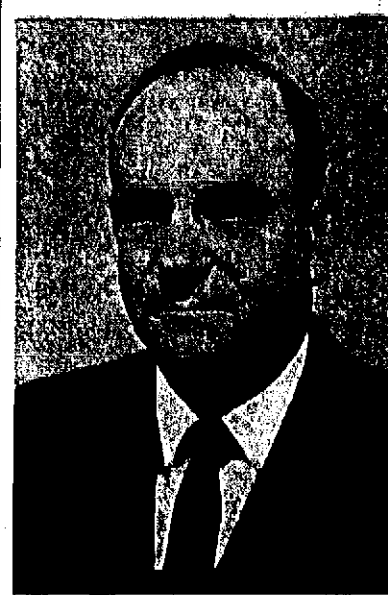

Faubus has indicated he thinks his program will get through the House when it comes up for a vote, probably on Tuesday. However, he appears uneasy over whether the program will get enough votes to attach an emergency clause to the sales tax bill. This clause would put the measure into effect immediately.

On 51 votes would be needed to pass the sales tax measure, but would be required to tack on the emergency provision.

If the emergency clause were voted down, it would be 90 days before the tax increase could get under way. This would give its foes time to circulate petitions for putting the issue to a referendum.

Balloting on a referendum could not be held until the general election of 1958. Such a delay would

Tribunal Rules in Favor of Workers

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) The Arkansas Supreme Court today held that 55 employees of Little Rock Furniture Manufacturing Co., who were not returned to work after a strike was called off in November 1953, were entitled to unemployment compensation.

In its unanimous opinion, the court emphasized that the case was settled under the law as it existed in 1953. A 1955 legislative act sought to bar claimants who are unemployed as a result of labor disputes in which they are involved.

The Supreme Court also pointed out that no claim was made for benefits during the time the workers were on strike but only for the time of unemployment which began after they sought to return to work but found their jobs already filled.

The Little Rock firm had resisted payment of the benefits, contending the strikers were subject to a statutory period of disqualification applying to workers who left jobs voluntarily.

The Supreme Court turned down the attempt of former Fort Smith Police Lt. Oscar Erke to get an increase in retirement pay. The decision reversed Sebastian Circuit Court.

The Fort Smith Police Pension Board fixed Erke's retirement salary at $135.75 a month; Erke contended he was entitled to $160.65 a month.

The dispute hinged on whether Erke was entitled to extra salary credit in relation to retirement pay for overtime work performed under a 1955 act which requires extra compensation for police officers on duty more than 40 hours a week.

Sebastian Circuit Court was affirmed on technical grounds in refusing judgment for Nina J. Porter and others against Timco Stores, Inc., and an employee, Bobby Hicks, for injuries suffered in an automobile collision.

The Supreme Court said the appellant had not complied with court rules through "almost a total failure to abstract the pleadings, or material parts thereof, or the evidence."

The Supreme Court held that D. N. Clark, son of the late John and Ellen Clark, is entitled to a one-third interest in 64 acres which had belonged to his parents near West Fort in Washington County. The holding modified a Washington County Circuit Court decree dividing the real estate among heirs of the late John Clark.

New Fight Opens for Civil Rights Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) Opening a new round in the civil rights battle, Atty. Gen. Brownell goes to Capitol Hill today on an effort to get President Eisenhower's program off to a fast start through Congress.

The program is designed solely, he said, to empower the government to proceed through civil action to protect rights guaranteed by the Constitution, instead of having to resort to criminal prosecution, as the law now requires.

Brownell was the first witness as hearings by the House Judiciary Committee on one of the major legislative requests President Eisenhower has made to the new Congress.

A sizable list of Southern foes of the President's proposals was waiting to be heard.

The administration's program calls for:

1. Creation of a bipartisan commission to investigate reported violations of civil rights.

2. Setting up a civil rights division in the Justice Department under an assistant attorney general.

3. New laws to protect voting rights and permit the government to use injunctive power to prevent violations.

4. Provision for civil damage suits where civil rights have been adjudged to have been violated.

The injunctive power would permit the government to seek court orders, in advance of an election, to halt any illegal interference with voting rights. As it is now, the government can only prosecute after actual denial of the voter's rights.

Brownell was the first witness called before the House Judiciary Committee in hearings at which a sizable list of Southern foes of the President's proposals was all waiting to be heard.

Administration backers said they will fight delaying tactics. Rep. Keating of New York, senior committee Republican, announced he will oppose any attempt to extend hearings beyond four days. He said:

"Experience has shown that if we are to get any bill into the President, we must not enact a bill haphazardly in the session. Only in this way can we force action in the Senate."

The House passed a civil rights bill late last session, but the Senate did not consider it before adjournment.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate GOP leader, set March 1 as a target date for starting Senate debate. Democratic leaders, less optimistic, thought late April was a more likely date.

Knowland said it might be necessary for the Senate to "wear down" an expected Southern filibuster before it can act on a civil rights bill.

In the House, Chairman Celler (D-NY) was prepared to speed the hearings by limiting testimony. Persons testifying last year will be asked simply to file statements.

But the committee will hear a number of Southern state officials.

They include Gov. John P. Coleman of Mississippi; Charles J. Bloch, representing Gov. Griffin of Georgia; Circuit Judge George C. Wallace of Alabama; Alabama State Sen. Sam Engelhard; Motor Vehicle Commissioner Edward Scheidt of North Carolina; and the attorneys general of Mississippi, Georgia, Virginia and South Carolina.

Bishop coal mine that straddles a bipartisan civil rights commission, creation of a civil rights division in the Justice Department, new assurance of the right to vote, and provision for civil damage suits where civil rights have been adjudged to have been violated.

Cites Cost of a Retirement System

LITTLE ROCK (AP) It would cost the state about $18,000 a year to set up a retirement system for 4,000 state employees, state Sen. Sam Levine of Pine Bluff estimated today.

Levine, sponsor of a bill to set up a retirement system for state employees, said the money would be matched by an equal amount from the employees.

He said that under his proposed system employees completing 20 years of service would draw from $37.50 to $125 a month on retirement.

"We seem to be developing career employees on state service and we need to encourage them and to attract new employees with retirement systems such as so many other states have," Levine said.

About 10,000 state employees now are covered by Social Security,

Entire Section Crew Victim of Whistling Blast

BISHOP, Va. (AP) A rumbling gas explosion trapped and killed 37 miners today in the cavernous. The President's program calls the mountainous Virginia West Virginia mine.

Rescue teams said this number of bodies had been counted below ground. Apparently the entire crew working in a section of the sprawling tunnels fell victims to the whistling, dusty blast.

The blast jammed the elevator that had carried the men in on the Virginia side and rescued work had to be routed through another entrance two and a half miles away on the West Virginia side.

The grimy masked workers who pushed through to the explosion still for any survivors by the time the first nine bodies were found.

Identification went on below ground before any bodies were brought to the surface, the blast site was described as "about a five minute walk" from the bottom of a 337-foot shaft.

be tantamount to defeat for the governor's program.

Faubus painted an eloquent picture of the need for extra services.

He said the public school system would get $14,300,000 with 90 percent of this money going for high school teachers' salaries.

An allocation of $4,300,000 from the increased revenue would bring in an additional 11 million dollars in federal matching funds, the governor said. These funds would allow bigger grants to the aged, the incompetent and dependent children.

About $1,780,000 would be used to hire extra doctors and attendants at the State Hospital and to boost salaries of present employees.

A Children's Colony would be constructed and operated by an allocation of $1,200,000.

Faubus said the increased revenue also would mean more funds for the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission. He denied his approval of an AIDC plan to build a Graduate Institute of Technology at Little Rock to attract students from other states.

Promises Not to Destroy Nat'l Guard

By TOM NELSON

WASHINGTON (UP) —National Guard leaders said today President Eisenhower has assured them he will not permit the Guard to be "destroyed or reduced materially in strength."

Officials of the National Guard association called on the President to ask him to reverse an army decision requiring all new Guard enlistees to take six months of basic training, starting April 1.

The association opposes this plan, claiming it would hinder guard enlistments. Representatives of the Guard urged the President to adopt their alternative plan requiring only 11 weeks of basic training.

Both the President and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson are strongly behind the six months plan.

National Guard officials present at today's White House meeting said Wilson's recent criticism of the guard did not come up. Wilson caused a furor by charging a "sort of scandal" developed in the Guard during the Korean war. He said many youths used it for "draft-dodging."

Mr. Eisenhower has termed Wilson's remark "very unwise." Acting as spokesman for the Guard group, Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland, said the President was "very receptive and assured us he would not permit the Guard to be destroyed or reduced materially in strength."

Reckord said he did not believe Wilson was attempting to destroy the Guard, but added he thought certain Defense Department officials were pursuing such a purpose. He did not name the officials.

The meeting today was arranged by Maj. Gen. E. A. Walsh, president of the National Guard Association who did not join the White House conference. Wash, last week denounced Wilson's statement as "a dam lie."

Also at the White House meeting was Maj. Gen. Earle M. Jones, California adjutant general.

With Wilson in Florida, the President called in the Guard officials to try to smooth over the angry row caused by Wilson's remarks.

The Pentagon concentrated on the calming congressional are in the Wilson-Guard dispute. Three top defense officials—Stephen S. Jackson, Acting Assistant Secretary of Defense for manpower, and Reckord, Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff—went before a House Armed Services subcommittee to explain the Wilson proposal that originally set off the controversy with the Guard.

Leggett Hearing Pleading Orally

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Oral arguments on the appeal of Emmett Earl Leggett, convicted player of 14-year-old Joe King, were heard by the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

Leggett, a Jacksonville youth, was convicted in Pulaski Circuit Court last year of beating and strangling young King, a boy he picked up on a highway near Jacksonville. He was sentenced to death.

John Bailey, attorney for Leggett, contended a biased juror sat on the case, the court's instruction to the jury was improper, and a change of venue was denied despite prejudice in Pulaski County.

Assistant Attorney Gen. Thorp Thomas said: "Did Joe King get a fair trial from Leggett? No, Leggett was the judge, jury and executioner in the case of Joe King."

The prosecution contended in Leggett's trial that he beat and choked young King after the boy resisted Leggett's sexual advances.

Leggett's appeal was argued by Leggett's attorney, John Bailey, and the state's attorney, Thorp Thomas.

The court will hear arguments on the appeal of Leggett's conviction and sentence.

Clark Backs Up, Offers His Apology

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Sen. Jack Clark of Texarkana today said he would apologize to the Arkansas Senate for his filibustering tactics in a minor bill Friday.

Clark made the statement before today's Senate session, during which a bill to repeal the sales tax exemption on Texarkana and other border cities was to come up.

The bill was introduced after Clark held the floor an hour—the maximum time permitted—on another measure which would reorganize the present system for inspection of liquefied petroleum gas tank.

The sales tax exemption repeal on border cities was introduced in retaliation by Sen. Jerry Screeton of Hazen and others who resented Clark's stalling tactics on a bill that apparently everyone favored except Clark.

Clark and other senators said they had received numerous protests from Texarkana residents on the introduction of the sales tax exemption repeal.

It seemed likely the Senate would pass Screeton's measure in order to censure Clark, but it seemed unlikely it would get approval of the House and Gov. Orval Faubus.

Citizens Group Advertisises Against Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) A group calling itself the Committee for Protection of the Working Man today moved into camp a sign against an increase in the State sales tax.

In newspaper advertisements today it urged people to register their protests with members of the legislature.

It listed reasons why the sales tax should not be increased from 2 to 3 per cent:

1. The sales tax hits lower income groups who can least afford an increase.

2. An increase would hamper the industrial development of Arkansas.

3. The present 2 per cent. sales tax is not being fully collected and there are too many exemptions.

4. An increase would "definitely hinder" the property assessment program.

Gov. Orval Faubus is asking the Legislature to increase the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent, broaden the base of the income tax to include more taxpayers, and boost severance taxes. The measures, designed to bring in an additional 22 million dollars a year, have passed the Senate and now are pending in the House.

The committee's advertisements were signed by Ralph Lehman of Hope. He was identified as chairman.

of Benton. Arrangements of white stock and fern marked the place of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Glen L. Williams, Jr., of Little Rock, wore a ballroom length gown of white crystal taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and three quarter length sleeves. Her finger tip veil of double illusion was attached to a white lace cap. Her only ornament was a gold necklace, a gift of her mother. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid.

The brides only attendant was Miss Charlotte Tarpley of Texarkana, who wore a beige taffeta dress and carried a crescent bouquet of miniature yellow chrysanthemums. Her head dress was of matching flowers.

Edward L. Luebner of Forrester City, cousin of the groom, served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of Alf Duval of Benton. The bride's table, covered with aqua tulle over matching satin, was centered with silver candle holders surrounded by white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Edward Woodford and Mrs. Duval L. Purkins alternated in presiding at the punch bowl which was situated at one end of the table, and the three tiered wedding cake ornamented the opposite end of the table.

Beautiful hair depends on color as much as texture. Temporary coloring that will wash out with your next shampoo can be added (left) by means of a color shampoo in any one of twelve shades. Next step is the application of a cream rinse (center) applied with a cotton ball dipped into a bowl of the rinse. The rinse seals the hair strands, the makers say, for greater luster. It leaves hair easier to manage, too. The rinse is said to maintain color in dyed hair and tone gray or discolored hair to a single, live shade. It must set for five or ten minutes before it's rinsed off. The final result, after non-drying net spray, is shining hair in a natural color (right). DOROTHY DIX

Woman With No Self-Respect Gets No Respect From Others

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband left me for another woman several months ago. He comes to see me every now and then, spending a few nights, then goes back to her. I ask him if he's ever coming back for good, but he doesn't answer. We have four children, and were married 13 years. The kids miss him, and so do I. How can I win him back?

SONIA

Dear Sonia: You can't expect anyone to put a higher value on you than you give yourself. You've made things easy for this first-class heel. He enjoys home privileges when he wants them, runs off to heaven knows how many women, yet incurs no responsibility whatever. Law-breaker, philanderer, negligent father, faithless husband — he's all of this, and more.

If you want him back, the first step is to lock the door until he's ready and able to settle down and support his family. As long as you're so free and easy, there's no incentive for him to become a responsible husband and father and rest assured, he won't.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend is a snail in high school. We've been going steady for two years and have discussed marriage. I think it would be wise if he got a part-time job after school. He tells me, however, that his father doesn't want him to work and furthermore, wants him to go on to college and still not work part-time. I don't agree to this, as I worked during school and maintained good grades.

Fay Dear Fay: This matter should be left to the boy and his family. The steady-dating stage is not the time for young ladies to move in on major decisions. Some students aren't capable of combining a work.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My parents don't like my boy friend. He has been in trouble several times for fighting and had to leave school because of a fight with a principal. He's really a wonderful boy — the school dream — and everyone wants to take him away from me.

CAROLINE

Dear Caroline: Your boy friend is a conceited young pup who gets violent with anyone who tries to impose discipline on him. Let someone else contend with the delights and heartaches of being dated by the school dreamboat. Latch onto a barge, which may not be impressive, but which is dependable and will get you places.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My steady and I get along very well when we see each other, but there are times when he's moody for weeks or months and doesn't even call me. He hasn't said he loves me for three years. I know he's not dating anyone else.

SALLY Dear Sally: Moodiness in others is a touchy handicap to lick. When it lasts for weeks and months at a time, as in this case, it's practically impossible to cure. Since, in addition to his moods, he hasn't mentioned love for three years, I suggest getting into circulation, making new friends and having some fun for a change.

Fire officials said there was an explosion during the fire, but its source was not immediately determined.

Famous Gunfighter Dies in Texas

FOR WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Harry H. Halsell, 66, trail driver, Indian fighter and author who credited his long life to his gun and his ability to use them, died quietly in his home here yesterday.

Halsell, who said he got his first six-shooter when he was 7, was born Oct. 1, 1890, in Clarksville, Tex., and ranged in Texas and New Mexico many years.

Later he became an author and wrote nine books, including an autobiography, about life on the cattle trails in the 19th century.

"I realize now," he wrote in 1941, "that for three decades, from 1870 to 1900, the habit of being well armed saved my life on several occasions."

The only minister who has served Arkansas as Governor was James P. Eagle. He was elected in 189 and served (ill) 1893.

"Income-wise," said the survey, "one-quarter of our class is earning between $7,000 and $9,000; about 18 per cent between $5,000 and $7,000; 16 per cent between $3,000 and $5,000; and 12 per cent between $1,000 and $3,000."

"Five per cent of the respondents claimed incomes exceeding $25,000 a year. About 4 per cent of our class have wives who work full time at an income producing job. Twenty-two per cent have wives with a separate income. . . It seemed that most of the respondents claiming $25,000 a year and over also were married to wives who have separate incomes."

The survey also showed that 61 per cent own one car; 27 per cent, two cars; 1 per cent, three or more cars, and about 3 per cent, no cars. Among 420 responses, "there were only two airplane owners as against 47 boat owners."

Politically, 63 per cent consider themselves Republicans, 15 per cent, Democrats, and 22 per cent, Independents. But the most reassuring single item, I, as a graduate of a humble Midwestern university found, was this:

"Fifty-five per cent have bought appliances, etc., at a discount house within the last year."

It's nice to know that Yale men, too, are scurrying around in that magical land between wholesale and retail prices.

Some Places in South Have Flooded Areas

By The Associated Press

Flooding of lowlands along rivers in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi is expected to increase Monday while spectacular but vital cleanup operations surge ahead in flood-ravaged areas of West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Death of a lineman electrocuted while making repairs on a utility pole in Kentucky brought to 15 the number of lives claimed by the devastating floods.

Damage was estimated at more than 75 million dollars. At least 15,000 were homeless. Many thousands more were idle. Washed out roads and bridges, piled up debris and just plain mud made it difficult and often impossible for workers to get to their jobs.

Virginia authorities were preparing to send doctors and nurses into hard-hit southwest Virginia. Plans also were being made to open typhoid clinics at a number of places. Water systems were being checked for purity as rapidly as possible.

The Coosa River passed flood stage at Gadsden, Ala., while other rain-soaked north and central Alabama streams remained over their banks. The Tennessee River inundated many miles of lowlands along its winding course. Extensive flooding of low sections was expected to continue for several days. But no danger to commercial buildings and residences was seen.

Seven families were driven from their homes in low sections of Resaca, a northwest Georgia town of 325 persons, Sunday night as the Oostanaula River rose slightly above flood stage. The river stood at 30.2 feet and was still rising. Police Chief R. C. Hayes reported. Flood stage is 29 feet.

The Tombigbee River was expected to crest at Columbus, Miss., at 8 p. m. Tuesday at a height of 34 feet.

BLITHEVILLE (AP)—The Blitheville School Board yesterday announced plans a $375,000 school construction program. Federal grants to Blitheville totaling $147,000 were approved last week.

CARBURETOR SAVES GAS BY "JET-ING"

The manufacturers, the Vacuumatic Carburetor Co., 7617-70 State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacuumatic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or send your name and address on a post card today.

Six Members of a Family Die in Fire

By The Associated Press

Six members of a Negro family died in a house fire at Blytheville yesterday, bringing to 22 the number of violent deaths in Arkansas during the week that ended at midnight Sunday.

There were 11 traffic deaths, two fatal shootings, another fire death, an industrial plant fatality and one man was killed when struck by a train.

The six victims of the Blytheville fire were J. E. Joe, 23; Clara Mae, 7; Bobby, 5; Norma Jean, 3; Erma, 2, and Geraldine, 1, children of Mr. and Mrs. James Joe. Joe's mother, his wife and one child escaped from the house, but the other six children were trapped in the blazing frame structure.

Fire chief Roy Head said that in terms of loss of life, it was the worst blaze in Blytheville's history. Cause of the fire was not determined, but Head said it probably began in the kitchen, where James Joe built a fire in a stove before leaving for work.

The body of a 67-year-old Negro man was found yesterday beside Missouri Pacific railroad tracks at Wrightsville near Little Rock.

Investigating officers said Hugh Davis of Wrightsville apparently had been struck by a train. The Rev. Fred Hatfield, 40, pastor of Harbor Lights Temple at Batesville, died at a Little Rock hospital Saturday of injuries suffered when his pickup truck overturned Thursday on an icy highway near Evening Shade in north Arkansas.

Wants College to Attract Industry

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—University of Arkansas trustees favor a plan to set up a college of technology here in order to boost chances of attracting new industry.

The proposal, which will be presented to the Legislature this week, calls for making the college a branch of the university and offering courses in chemistry, physics and engineering.

Bill Good, assistant to University President John T. Caldwell, said the trustees hope "a big financial case can be worked out."

W. R. Smith of Lake Village, a member of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, said the bill would call for an outlay of $799,000 the first year and about $390,000 the following year.

He suggested that the old University Medical School, abandoned when the new Medical Center was built, be used to house the college.

News Briefs

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Grocer H. V. Hickinotham unsuccessfully sought a new trial yesterday on 20 charges of violating the state Sunday closing law. Circuit Judge William J. Kirby rejected Hickinotham's motion.

Tree Unions Charged With Corruption

By NORMAN WALKER
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO charged three of its own unions today with corruption and failure to reform in a precedent-making ouster move.

Leaders of the merged AFL-CIO pushed for a showdown on charges against the Laundry Workers, Distillery Workers and Allied Industrial Workers and Allied Industrial Workers unions. The latter union has been the target of recent Senate investigations.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee accused the three unions, claiming combined membership of 170,000, of looting welfare funds of millions of dollars. The committee's reports were placed before the AFL-CIO Executive Council for action.

The council was reported divided between those disposed to give the three unions another chance to correct matters, and another council group, believed dominant, determined to make an example of the trio for other AFL-CIO unions.

The three unions were soundly condemned in a 1955 Senate Labor subcommittee investigation. The secret reports of the Ethical Practices Committee, summing up findings of the 1955 Senate investigations as well as private union probes, said the unions have done nothing to insure honest welfare fund handling and were guilty of associating with gangster influences.

Soldier Killed Near Brinkley

BRINKLEY (AP)—A soldier, apparently en route to his home at Fort Smith, was killed today when his car and a gasoline transport truck collided six miles west of here on U. S. Highway 70.

Slate Trooper Joe Cosner identified the victim as Sgt. Earl O'Neill Yancey, 25, who was stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky. He was traveling alone.

Cosner said the driver of the truck, Lee Ennon, 49, of West Memphis, was not injured.

Mystery in Moscow Over Ill Scientist

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UP)—A tight security curtain today hid the identity of a mystery patient ill in Moscow and added fuel to the fires of an international guessing game.

The guesses ranged all the way from some such top Soviet leader as Deputy Premier Lazar M. Kaganovich to a relatively unknown but important atomic scientist.

There was this much to go on:

1. Dr. Hans Joachim Shulten, a blood disease specialist in Cologne, Germany, suddenly was summoned to Moscow. He was not told his patient's identity.

2. The patient must be of importance to warrant the sudden summons.

The Supreme Soviet meets in Moscow tomorrow and the leaders will be scanned closely for important absentees.

In New York, the tabloid Daily News added a cloak-and-dagger touch to the speculation. It quoted Washington "intelligence sources" to the effect that Kaganovich had been shot mysteriously in a Kremlin power struggle and is near death.

The news said the 64-year-old Kaganovich, a former right hand of Premier Josef Stalin, wanted to remove Communist Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin, "Khrushchev and Bulganin, the chief schemer in a plot to bring their ouster and a complete Kremlin reshuffle, reportedly ordered the deputy premier shot," the news said.

Soviet party, Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev heads the bureau. The "right wing" of the American party it attacked apparently consists, in Moscow's eyes, primarily of editorial staff members of the New York Daily Worker, party newspaper.

The attack seemed intended to strengthen pro-Soviet elements of the American party. It hit the divided American Reds just before their national convention in New York Feb. 9-12.

Some of the American party's top leaders, notably 76-year-old Chairman William Z. Foster, have been at odds with the "right wing" since Khrushchev launched the anti-Stalin campaign a year ago.

"Something went wrong," Kaganovich was only gravely wounded when struck down by a bullet Thursday night, and now he is apparently receiving every care."

A United Press Moscow dispatch made no mention of the Daily News report but said Kaganovich had completed a two-week tour of Siberia only yesterday and had returned to Moscow. The report would seem to eliminate him from time guessing game, since the cologne blood specialist was summoned to Moscow Saturday.

Ouachita Goes Over Flood Stage Today

By The Associated Press

The Ouachita River was 2 1/2 feet above flood stage and still rising at Camden today, but the U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said no serious flooding was expected.

At Clarendon, the White River had reached the 26-foot-flood stage mark.

Otherwise the recent rains had little effect on rivers in Arkansas. The Arkansas River ranged about 15 feet below flooding from Van Buren to Pine Bluff.

The river forecast called for a Ouachita crest at Camden of 29 feet and then a gradual drop. The Ouachita was 23.5 feet at Camden today.

Rivermen said the Ouachita would have to top 30 feet to cause serious flooding in the Camden area although two little-traveled highways were under water. State Highway 7 from Camden to Kent and the Woodard Lake Road. Farmers and stockmen were warned to move livestock out of the bottom land. Little loss was expected.

The river forecast also called for a gradual fall in the levels of White and Black rivers.

Insurance Interested in U. S. Spending

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The life insurance industry is interested in government spending, said the president of the National Association of Life Underwriters here today, because of the insurance dollar's dependence on a stable economy.

A. Jack Nussbaum, head of the association of 65,000 members, said:

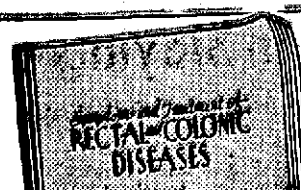

"Life insurance represents dollars to be paid at an indefinite time. The more buying power the dollar has, the great good we have done by selling insurance."

Nussbaum was here to address a meeting of the Arkansas Underwriters Association.

In 1879 the State Horticulture Society was organized.

Car Sought as Clue on Twin Slaying

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN

CHICAGO, (UP) Police today sought a stolen black car as a new clue in the slaying of two teen-agers, and a black dishwasher charged with their murders remained in jail, unable to post bond.

Bennie (The Dishwasher) Bedwell, 21, an illiterate black dishwasher who first confessed and then denied the slayings, picked even a small portion of the $20,000 bond set Saturday after three days of hearings in criminal court.

Police, meanwhile, investigated a truck driver's report that he saw two young men in a black car pick up two "bobbysoxers" on Dec. 28, the night Barbara Grimes, 15, and her sister, Patricia, 13, disappeared.

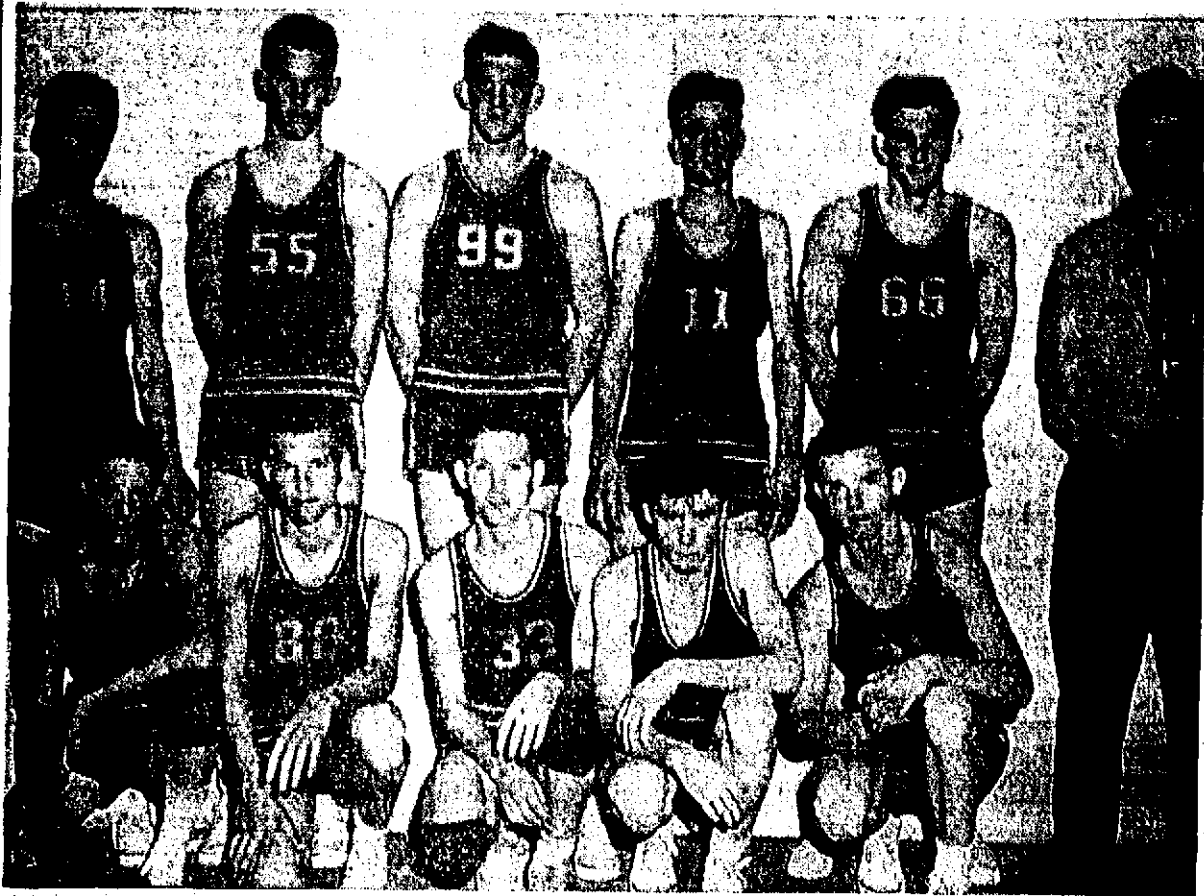

The girls' nude and frozen bodies were found Jan. 22 in a roadside ditch on Chicago's Southwest side.

Authorities also questioned three teen-agers from the girls' neighborhood, two of whom face arraignment today on charges of assaulting a sailor home on leave. Truck Driver Daniel Eshelman, 35, told police he saw two girls get into a car when he stopped his double tank oil truck at an intersection near the victim's home.

Eshelman's description of the car indicated it might have been a black 1951 Mercury stolen Dec. 23 and still missing. The car theft also occurred in a district near where the sisters lived. Eshelman said the girls wearing clothes similar to those worn by the victims, were standing on a corner. He said the men called to the girls and one of them entered the car almost immediately while the other girl hesitated before entering.

The truck driver said he recalled the incident because the car cut sharply in front of his vehicle and braked to a stop at the curb. Eshelman said he has spent considerable time since trying to track the car and compiling a list of license numbers on similar cars.

Judge Lenient in Case of Elderly Woman

BALTIMORE (UP) The little old woman stood before the bench in the courtroom, apparently a little bewildered by the proceedings.

Emma Canoles was 82. Her knobby fingers stroked the brass bar in front of her. The charge was larceny: stealing 60 cents worth of meat from a northwest Baltimore food market.

A policeman stood on either side of her. They seemed to be supporting her—with more than physical support. Behind the officers stood four police women who had offered to pay the 60 cents.

The prosecuting witness — the meat shop proprietor — was saying shoplifting had reached "huge proportions," had become so bad that he had hired two private detectives. Theodore Edlow said he made up his mind the next case would be prosecuted, "no matter who it was."

Magistrate Milton Talkin interrupted: "Usually, when you make a hard and fast rule, the wrong case comes along."

The storekeeper replied: "We decided we had to draw a line, whether it was a 12-year-old or an 82-year-old."

He recited the facts calmly. A package of meat was taken. He was suspicious of the little old woman. He followed her outside and asked her if she had taken it. He saw her drop the package from under her overcoat. He called police and ordered her arrest.

"Forgive me for being so cold blooded, but something has to be done."

With difficulty, the magistrate tried to get the old woman's side of the story.

Mrs. Canoles broke down. She admitted taking the meat.

Actress on Honeymoon in Mexico

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UP) Elizabeth Taylor and Mike Todd honeymooned today at an unscheduled spot — a guest house on the estate of former President Miguel Aleman. It is only 10 feet from where they were married.

The couple had planned to leave Acapulco for a brief honeymoon somewhere else in Mexico. But they were up so late for the reception after the civil ceremony Saturday night they could not complete plans to leave.

Miss Taylor, recovering from a spinal operation, was said to have been exhausted after the excitement of the wedding and the party.

Most of the guests who flew in from the United States also stayed for the weekend. They wore the Tarscan Indian sports shirts Todd had made for them initialed "ET" and "MT."

A Jewish religious marriage ceremony had been planned to follow the civil ceremony, but Todd was unable to find a rabbi. He finally located a Protestant missionary who promised to officiate, but the minister arrived too late.

High point of the reception was a surprise hour-long fireworks display arranged by the Mexican Comedian Cantinflas, co-star of Todd's picture "Around the World in 80 Days."

Eddie Fisher, a best man along with Cantinflas, sang during the display. The entertainment also included music by a string orchestra and ball dancing. The scene was lighted by flares set in cocoons cut in half.

BURNS TO DEATH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The charred body of an 86-year-old Negro, Will Joiner, was found by firemen in a bedroom shortly after fire almost destroyed his 4-room frame house here today. Joiner, a retired railroad man, had been blind 12 years.

She said she didn't know why, that she didn't even eat meat. She was a widow living alone, she said, and wanted to pay a fine and go home.

"I treat an old youngster the same as I do a young youngster," said Magistrate Talkin.

His ruling: probation before a verdict, which meant that the woman would not have a conviction on her record.

States Asked to Produce More Oil

By JAMES MARLOW AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) The Eisenhower administration, on the subject of oil needed for Europe, is carrying water, or perhaps oil, on both shoulders.

It wants American producers and oil-producing states, particularly Texas, to make more oil available for Europe, which has run short since the Suez Canal was closed.

The administration set goals which haven't been met. But it won't crack down on the companies or the states. Administration officials say they don't want to interfere with states' rights.

So it is torn between foreign policy and domestic policy between international cooperation and states' rights. But that's only part of a badly mixed-up picture. Before the canal was closed, Europe used about 3,200,000 barrels of oil a day. It got that oil from European wells, from the Middle East, from wells in the Caribbean, and a very small amount from the United States.

Before Suez it needed practically no oil from the United States. Most of its supply came from the Middle East, and moved through pipe lines and in tankers that made a quick run through the Suez Canal.

After the canal was closed Europe stepped up the production of its own oil and routed tanker shipments from the Middle East around Africa.

But there is still such a shortage, administration officials say, that this country has to fill the German President to Visit U. S.

BONN, Germany (AP) President Theodor Heuss of West Germany will visit the United States in March.

It will be the West German President's first visit to America.

gap in a big way. Europe on ration gasoline, but it needs the oil products to keep its economy going, especially through the next 60 days or so of cold weather. Bad shortages could force industrial close-downs and shove Europe into an economic tailspin.

The administration has set a goal of 500,000 barrels of crude oil and fuels a day from this country. Before Suez this country shipped about 50,000 barrels of oil products a day. But American companies have been sending an average of no more than 300,000 barrels a day in recent weeks.

This writer saw Interior Department figures indicating Europe could use 800,000 barrels a day from this country. But he was told these were not "solid" figures. He got different figures from the State Department but was instructed not to rely on them either, because they were not "official."

Hugh Stewart, director of the Interior Department's Oil and Gas Division, was asked at a news conference last Friday if he could provide figures showing exactly how much oil Europe was getting from outside the United States and precisely how much it needed from this country.

He said he had no "solid" figures, but expected to receive some this week. Meantime, he said, the administration was depending on what it considered reasonable estimates.

Within this country, there is conflict between the big oil companies which have major overseas interests, and the independent producers, who sell largely in local markets. If there is over-production of oil, the price probably would go down.

Texas would have to be the major source of added supplies. The Texas Railroad Commission—that state's regulatory body which sets the limits on how much oil can be taken out of the ground—is not, in the opinion of the administration, as "generous" as it might be.

Sites Selected for State Tournaments

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Sites have been announced for state high school basketball tournaments— which the Big Eight will not attend.

The executive committee of the Big Eight ruled Saturday that the Big Eight is not required to hold a district meet. This in effect put the Big Eight out of the Class A tournament.

The ruling clarified a situation that had been boohed around nearly a year. Big Eight schools voted three times to stay out of the tournament. Legal justification for the move came after requests by Hot Springs and Texarkana for an AAA ruling.

Here are the state tournament dates and sites:

Class B senior boys, Feb. 20-March 2, Little Rock Junior College.

Class B senior girls, Feb. 20-23, Greenbrier.

PULLED BY THE NOSE—"Schnozzola" could be the name for this Air Force C-124 Globemaster. It sports a Pratt and Whitney T-57 engine in its nose. The company is using the aircraft as a test bed for the new propeller-turbine engine intended for transcontinental transports of the Air Force. The entire forward structure of the huge plane had to be altered for the testing at East Hartford, Conn.

INVASION OF THE MOON?—In eerie light that suggests the mountains of the moon, Italian paratroopers descend toward a 7,500-foot-high plateau amid the forbidding crags of the Italian Alps at Conca Di Corvaro. Marking a new era in mountain warfare, the drop was made in sub-zero temperatures.

A veteran of 20 years in Michigan politics, she was elected at the organization's convention in Chicago last September and was sworn in at the recent directors' meeting in Washington.

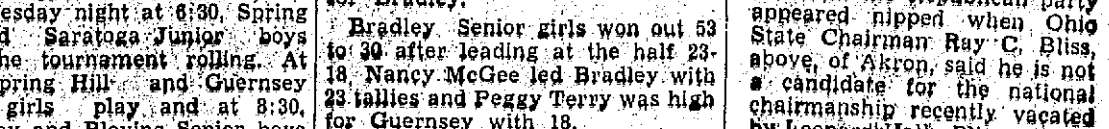

BOWS OUT—A threatened revolt in the Republican party appeared nipped when Ohio State Chairman Ray C. Bliss, above, of Akron, said he is not a candidate for the national chairmanship recently vacated by Leonard Hall. Bliss was the choice of the GOP Taft wing, who opposed the White House-backed candidacy of H. Meade Aicron, Jr., of Connecticut.

BUFFALO GRASS

By Frank Gruber

THE STORY: The first herd of Texas cattle arrives in Pawnee City, Kan., and success seems assured for Chad Morgan and Joe Jagger, partners who built the town.

The stockers rolled into Pawnee City four days later, by which time 9,000 Texas longhorns were grazing on the lush buffalo grass both north and south of the railroad tracks.

Behind the stockcar train, came a special passenger train of two coaches. From it spilled a horde of people. Cattle buyers, laborers, carpenters, gamblers, thieves and a few speculators and businessmen.

And bill collectors. Morgan was in the ample hotel lobby when the train passengers began coming into the hotel. The only furniture in the lobby was a rough plank "desk." On it was a ledger in which Jagger had started.

day." The man still scowled. "How about blankets? Sheets?" Morgan shook his head. "Bare walls, that's all." The man took two silver dollars from his pocket and tossed them on the "desk." "All right," he said with ill grace. "I was expecting to rough it out here, but—"

He was crowded aside by the new influx of potential guests. He fought his way back to the desk. "My key!" "No key," said Morgan. "What room?" bleated the first guest. "Any room," said Morgan. "It's first come, first served."

A woman suddenly appeared. She was wearing a green traveling suit, a bonnet with a green feather and she carried a green crepe bag that matched her dress. She went around the crowd and stepped behind the desk.

"Hello, Mr. Morgan," she said coolly. "Miss — Miss Jagger!" exclaimed Morgan. "Joe didn't tell me you were coming."

Helen smiled at him and turned briskly to the waiting guests. "Yes, gentlemen. Our rates are three dollars for single rooms,

A stout little man, in a sober business suit and wearing a derby, was the first arrival at the hotel.

He stopped just inside the door and looked around. "Aren't you open for business?"

"We are," said Morgan. "If you don't mind sleeping on the floor."

"The floor?" "Our furniture hasn't arrived yet."

The stout man scowled. "Any other place around here a man can sleep?"

"Sure," said Morgan cheerfully. "The parlor. And it won't cost you a cent."

Two men came in from the street, then three in a group. All carried luggage.

Morgan said to the stout gentleman. "Rates are two dollars a

'Tonight' Is Good Idea But Muffed

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK — In the new version of the "Tonight" show NBC-TV has an excellent idea which has been muffed incredibly in its first programs.

As "Tonight" now falls, it constitutes a grand plan to induce all late viewers to watch old movies.

Steve Allen made "Tonight" with sapient mirth and pleasant tomfoolery. Now NBC requires him to devote his strength in dubious battle against Ed Sullivan on the opposition CBS-TV Sunday evenings.

In his stead we have Jack Lescault, who is able enough, and assorted newspaper reporters who should stick to their typewriters. The theme is "America After Dark."

The idea is that there's a lot going on in America after dark and let's look at it. Well, there is a lot going on, but "Tonight" hasn't gotten around to seeing much of it yet.

The chief technical fault of the program is its now you see it and now you don't method. A few words are exchanged and then off we go into the wild blue yonder with the promise of returning. Not many people can be kept awake five dollars for double." "I've been asking two," Morgan whispered.

She shook her head. "That isn't enough." She thrust the pencil at a guest. "Sign here, please."

The man shook his head. "Uh-uh, I'm here to see Jagger."

"I'm his sister," said Helen, "and this is his partner, Mr. Morgan."

"Morgan, eh? Guess you'll do." The man reached into his pocket and brought out a folded sheet of note paper. "I've got a bill here against you for $9,648.80."

The man drew out another folded paper from his pocket, a legal-looking piece. "If you don't pay up, I hand you this. An attachment."

"Jagger," said Morgan. "He takes care of the bills."

"Well, let him take care of this one."

A second derby-hatted man moved forward with a piece of paper in his fist. "He can take care of me at the same time. Allington Hardware Company. Two thousand, three hundred—"

"Six thousand, six hundred for me," a third man sounded off. "And I got a judgment."

"I'll go and find Mr. Jagger," said Morgan.

He found Joe Jagger up the street, trying to sell a lot to a red-faced, perspiring man. "Five hundred dollars!" the man was saying. "That's too much for a measly little piece of ground."

"What kind of business were you thinking of starting here?"

The man hesitated. "Well, I ain't quite decided yet."

Joe Jagger nodded. "In that case, the lot will cost you seven-fifty."

The real-estate buyer glowered at Jagger. "Now, look here, Mister."

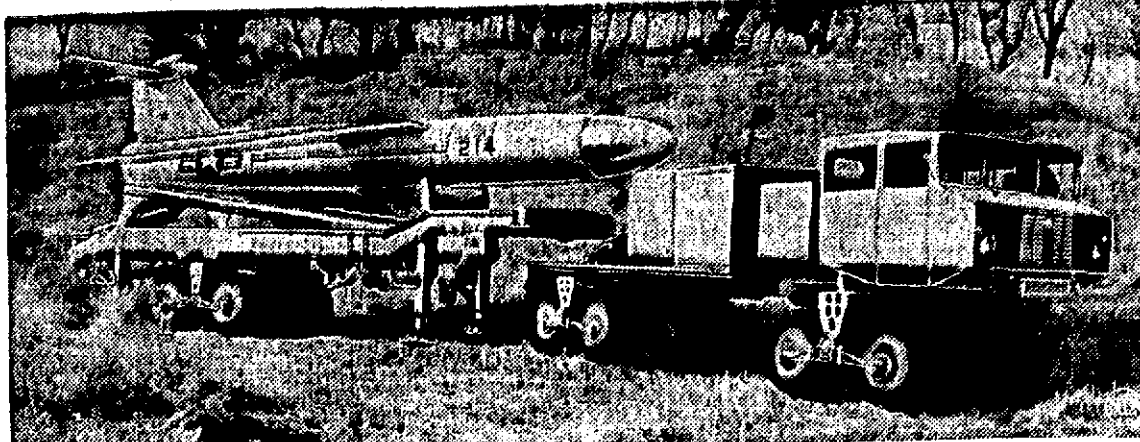

"You're a speculator!" Jagger said coolly. "I figure to do all the legitimate business right now—and the price of this lot is five hundred if you get started building right away. If you're not building, the price is seven hundred and fifty."

"Mister," said the red-faced man angrily. "I ain't liking it—but I'll give it a whirl. I'll take these two lots here."

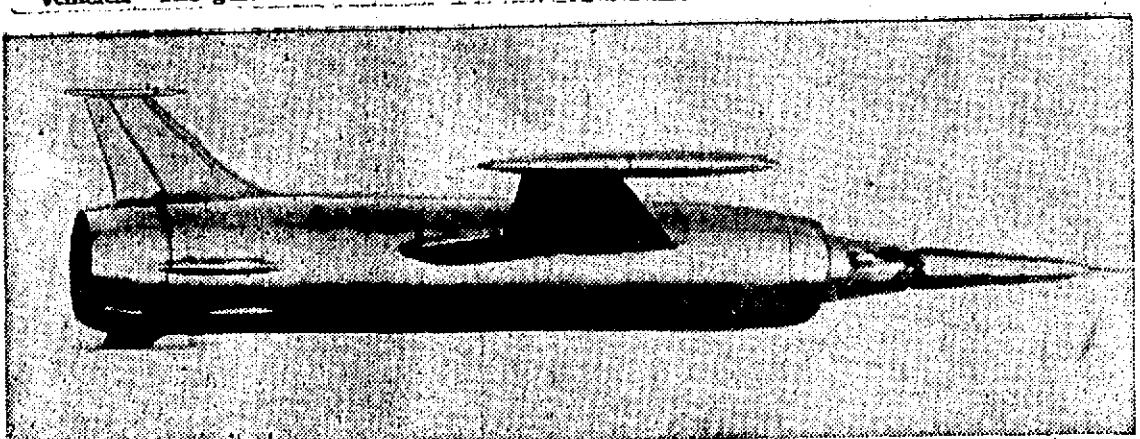

Jagger shook his head. "Two lots to one buyer brings the price up . . . to two thousand." He winked at Chad Morgan.

The red-faced man suddenly closed his mouth and took a fat billfold from his pocket. "Here's your money. Just give me a receipt."

"OVER HILL, OVER DALE . . ."—Unveiled during the inaugural parade in Washington was this unique Air Force missile transportation unit, shown in composite photo. It comprises an eight-wheel "terracruiser" prime mover (right) and a semi-trailer launcher. Both ride on pillow-like, softly inflated tubeless tires that roll over ground impassable to ordinary vehicles. The guided missile is the new TM-61LB Matador, with wings folded back.

"FLYING STOVEPIPE"—This is the first photo released by the French Air Ministry showing the new supersonic Leduc 022, being tested at France's Istres airfield. The odd-looking aircraft, dubbed "The Flying Stovepipe," is powered by a ramjet engine that develops 800,000 horsepower. The eight-ton plane, made of heat-resistant alloys, is reported capable of flying at twice the speed of sound. The pilot flies in a prone position in its nose.

Elvis Is Not Shaving Off Sideburns

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Elvis Presley isn't shaving off his sideburns for Bing Crosby or anyone — except maybe Uncle Sam.

The Presley sideburns have been a target for criticism ever since the leaping lad burst into prominence. Even Crosby, delivering some friendly advice in print recently, remarked, "He has to take those sideburns off."

Elvis declined. "I like 'em and I'm going to keep 'em," he declared.

He explained that he's had them ever since he was a youngster. The season fog them: His great admiration for truck drivers, many of whom sported sideburns near his Tupelo, Miss., home.

Elvis admitted he would probably part with his long hair style if he goes into the army.

"There never has been anyone who could avoid having his hair cut short in the Army," he reasoned. "Even if they did give me special permission, I wouldn't want it."

Elvis could be drafted at any time, and he's resigned to going.

"The law says that every young American male has to put in some time in the service," he said. "I'm willing to follow the law. I'm not asking any special favors; I'll do whatever they tell me."

This is in reply to Sen. Smathers of Florida who relayed to Presley's draft board complaints of Miami that the singer would be shunted into Special services when drafted. "If they want me to sing, I'll sing," Elvis said. "but I don't want to be treated different from anyone else."

Right now he's doing his singing for the movies and plenty of it. He's playing in "Loving You" for Hal Wallis, who has him under contract for a picture a year for seven years. The producer has already announced "Sing You Sinners" to follow immediately.

Meanwhile, 20th-Fox, which also has a two-picture commitment with him, says the lad will do one right away. It's obvious that the movies want to cash in on Presley before Uncle Sam picks up his option.
